REMARKS.

“An honest tale speeds best, being plainly told.”

In describing the collection of coins, etc., made by the late John Devlin, and now owned by his widow, Mary A. Devlin, I have made no attempt to display any supposed personal erudition or historical knowledge; taking for granted that collectors of these mementos are not wholly ignorant of the subject.

Owing to their having been unwrapped for display in the cabinet, many pieces are somewhat tarnished in the large proof sets from and including 1860, and two of those of 1866. This is the case also with many of the silver and bronze pieces. The tarnish may be removed, if desired, although the work of time, where erosion is not a factor, is not objectionable to many students of history.

E. MARIS.
